before the court house meeting, Senator Douglas talked about Russia's Sputnik.

Mr. Jouglas emphasized a couple of times he was not an expert on this subject, but gave a few of his ideas on the matter.

"The real menace is not the satellites themselves that Russia is sending up-the real menace is the tremendous propulsive power that Russia has developed," he stated.

Such propulsive power is bound to give the Russians the ability to send a missile a long distance. He said it was not certain that the Russians have solved one technical problem in the missile field.

"As the missile comes down, a terrific heat friction is created." he said. "If you don't have a proper heading to resist heat, the missile will dissolve and the destruc-

Separate Report Shows Slight Loss In Factory Pay

Consumer prices in October held to their September levels, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. The announcement followed a statement Thursday by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell that the inflationary spiral has been

A seasonal drop in food prices was primarily responsible for stopping the long upward push on family budgets which hac occurred every month since August,

The good news was coupled with a warning, however. The Bureau of Labor Statistics predicted there may be a slightly higher over-all price index this month because of higher price tags on 1958 autos. It said this gain will offset continued seasonal drops in food prices, which are expected to hit a low point in January. Less Take-Home Pay

But they must Ernest Ammon. 113 West Elm also be persuaded of the immense cultural and spiritual values inherent in the ways of freedom.

Americans traveling or living abroad must be better missionaries than they generally are. Too often we tend to put our worst foot forward, stressing the brassy aspect of our bustling life. We need to cultivate a deeper understanding of other peoples and show a willingness to embrace the good things of their life as we hope they will do of ours in return.

We know we have a great country, a fine tradition of freedom. and a rema kable record of achivement of human betterment for ourselves and others. But we must present our story with humility, not with an air of smug superiority.

We deserve to be understood for what we are. Again, it is our job to see that we are. But it is not all

Some of the world's emerging peoples are primitive. They cannot be looked to for an easy appreciation of the comparative merits of the American system and Pussian communism.

But others, like the people of India, have a long, long history of civilized living, are steeped in their own philosophy and wisdom, and pride themselves on their grasp of fundamental human val-

Too many among these peoples are blinded by the hate engendered in the colonial era. By mysterious means that often seem wholly unreasonable, much of this feeling has been transferred from Britain and France to us. Men in these older civilizations need to look inward upon themselves. For wise men are men of compassion, tolerant of human frailty, especially when it shows itself in a people so well marked by qualities of service to free humanity, as are Americans.

Some who have resented our supremacy now take an odd delight in our adversity. They do not appear to grasp that our adversity is the adversity of all aspiring Whatever our failings, our strength is ranged on the side of liberty, of living standards lifted up, of dignity and respect for the human individual.

On the succeses of the mutual adventure of trying to bring better understanding between ourselves and others hangs the fate of all free men on this earth.

BRIDGES ARE OF MANY KINDS - but the function of all bridges is the same: To span a gap between one place and another; to help people get where they want to go. Gaps are of many kinds, too. There is a gap between dreaming of a home and owning one; a gap between wishing for up-todate household equipment and having it; a gap between seeing a new-model car in a salon and driving it. Every day, Americans are bridging these and similar financial gaps - with the help of the

The store that advertised coffee at 27c a pound today would surely be the busiest place in town. Coffee sold for that in 1937, but it doesn't anymore.

Suppose coffee sold today for 19c a pound-almost a third below the 1937 price!

That's the case with CIPS residential electric service. Today CIPS customers are paying about one-third less per kilowatthour for electricity than they paid 20 years ago. True, electric bills are higher . . . but CIPS customers are using much more of it (about four times as much) to operate things like television and clothes dryers that were only dreamed of in those days.

Stop for a minute and think of all the other electrical conveniences you enjoy now that you didn't have in 1937. Then we think you'll agree your electric service is just about the biggest bargain in the family budget.

All-America football team for the last man to beat them.

These guys now probably will be ignored by every one else in the nation - including my underworked barber who is announcing his team next week at the canarsie coiffure conclave. The fact that I have seen absolutely none of them is to be ignored. So here they are: Ends: Dick Wallen, UCLA, and Jim Phillips, Auburn.

Tackles: Alex Karras, Iowa, and Lou Michaels, Kentucky. Guards: Roy Hord, Duke, and Al Ecuyer, Notre Dame. Center: Don Stephenson, Georgia Tech. Backs: John Crow, Texas Aggies; Clendon Thomas, Oklahoma; Walt Kowalczyk, Michigan State: and Don Clark, Ohio State.

Names Second Team

The second team, just in case you're still with me, includes: ends, Jim Gibbons, Iowa, and Dave Kaiser; Michigan State: tackles, Charley Kreuger, Texas Aggies, and Bob Reifsnyder, Navy: guards, Aurelius Thomas, Ohio State, and Bill Johnson, Tennessee; center, Charley Brueckman, Pitt; and backs, Bob Anderson Army; Tom Forrestal, Navy; Jim Shanley, Oregon ,and Jim Pace, Michigan.

Let it be said right now that, being one of the nation's leading Monday morning coaches, I am completely satisfied with my first team. The line is big, fast and mobile with a 207-pound average while the backs are meaty enough at a 198-pound average to make their own holes if somebody falls down on the job.

Extortion in AF Garbage Hauling

MINEOLA, N. Y. P-Vincent J Squillante, alleged underworld czar of a 50-million-dollar-a-year private carting industry, was indicted Thursday night for extortion in connection with U. S. Air Force garbage contracts. He was taken from his home in handcuffs and jailed early today.

Arrested with Squillante were his brother, Nunzio, and Carmen De Cabia, a Long Island garbage hauler. Squillante and De Cabia were charged with one count of extortion and one count of attempted extortion in the indictment handed up at 11:30 p. m by a Nassau County Grand Jury Nunzio Squillante was charged with one count of attempted ex-

They are to be arraigned in Nassau County court today.

All the counts related to a $3,900 loss by Angelo Recchia, operator of the Trio Carting Co., in connection with contracts for garbage disposal at Mitchel Air Force Base and the Santini Housing Project

They apparently were a direct. and speedy, result of testimony by Recchia and others before the Senate Labor and Management Rack ets Committee in Washington last Vincent Squillante, self-styled godson of murdered gangster Albert Anastasia, declined to answer committee questions relating to his alleged underworld "stranglehold" on the private garbage industry in the metropolitan area, or his relationship to the slain Anastasia.
